INTRODUCTION

Biography

Jan Keulen was born in Assen in the Netherlands in 1950. After having graduated in Spanish, he became a journalist for the Dutch daily newspaper de Volkskrant and several Dutch broadcasting stations. He was foreign correspondent in Madrid, Beirut, Cairo, Mexico-City and Amman in the two periods 1977-1992 and 1995-1998.

In the intermediate years he worked in the Middle East as an itinerant journalist.

In 1984 he received the most important prize for journalism in the Netherlands (Prijs van de Nederlandse Dagbladpers) for his reporting on the civil war in Lebanon.

During his stay in Lebanon as a reporter he built a collection on the political developments in Lebanon, which mainly covers the period 1980-1986.

In 1998 he was appointed lecturer at the University of Groningen.

He is author of Standplaats Beiroet (1984), Weg van God, Iran twintig jaar na de revolutie (1999) and other books.

Collection

With the help of Ramona al-Karah Jan Keulen built a documentation collection on Lebanon for his work as a journalist, mainly covering the period 1980-1986.

This collection consists mainly of newspaper clippings, pamphlets, bulletins, leaflets and some other printed documents on different subjects relating to the civil war in Lebanon. They have been arranged by subject.

The size of the collection is 3.5 m.
